Johan Eriksson is regarded as one of the most reputable lawyers in Sweden, with an experience in criminal law spanning over more than three decades.

Widely recognised and frequently sought after as a defense attorney in high-profile cases, he has consistently earned the trust of both clients and peers. Specialising in the defense of key figures within the legal system, including policymakers, judges, prosecutors, police officers, and fellow attorneys, Johan Eriksson has been consistently chosen as the number one defense attorney by his colleagues for ten consecutive years.

Drawing inspiration from Anglo-Saxon litigation, Johan Eriksson has cultivated a reputation for a composed and minimalist courtroom style. Through this approach, he has learned the art of earning the court's favor. His contributions to the legal field have been acknowledged with the Swedish Bar Association's prize for outstanding services, and he has been appointed as an honorary Doctor of Law at Stockholm University.

Alongside his courtroom practices, Johan Eriksson serves as a member of the Swedish Bar Association's board. He has been appointed by the Swedish government on multiple occasions to lend his insights as an expert in various state investigations. A sought-after legal commentator in the media, Johan Eriksson provides his insights into national issues surrounding criminal law and policy. Furthermore, Johan Eriksson has a noteworthy legacy of lecturing fellow lawyers and students in the art of litigation at Sweden's leading legal institutions.

Johan Eriksson is a founding partner of the Swedish law firm Försvarsadvokaterna. He also engages in writing as an author, having published both non-fictional works and novels.
