Nick is an experienced and sought-after defence advocate representing clients across a wide range of serious and complex cases both as junior alone and as a led junior.

He is recognised for his close attention to detail in case preparation and ability to marshal complex case information to support his argument. He is a strong courtroom advocate whose calm, authoritative approach and robust cross-examining have earned the respect of colleagues and opponents alike.

Nick has advised and represented clients across the spectrum of criminal offences, including murder, attempted murder, serious violence, the importation and supply of drugs, rape and sexual assault, robbery, the possession and use of firearms, and burglary. He has considerable experience in matters relating to the proceeds of crime, including confiscation and civil-cash forfeiture proceedings.

He also has significant experience in quasi-criminal cases. His experience includes cases involving sexual harm prevention, stalking protection orders, breaches of planning orders, offences involving protected trees, and applications for the imposition of CBOs.
